Allen & Hoshall Names New Vice President

Memphis, Tenn., April 16, 2007 – Memphis-based engineering and energy management consulting firm recently promoted Jimmy Nelson to vice president.

An Allen & Hoshall employee since 1984, Nelson most recently served as senior civil engineer and project manager for the company. His new responsibilities include overseeing the day-to-day activities and leadership of the Jackson, Miss., regional office and the infrastructure division of Allen & Hoshall.

“Jimmy’s promotion to vice president is well-deserved,” said Danny McKee, senior vice president at Allen & Hoshall. “He has distinguished himself as a dedicated and hardworking employee, and will continue to perform as an excellent leader.”

Nelson is involved in several professional organizations, including the American Water Works Association, the Society of American Military Engineers and the Consulting Engineers Council of Mississippi. He also is on the board of directors for the City of Ridgeland Chamber of Commerce and is a member of the Madison-Ridgeland Rotary Club.

A native of Jackson, Miss., Nelson is a graduate of Mississippi State University, earning his degree in civil engineering. Nelson is married to wife Frances, and the couple has a son, Harry, who currently attends Mississippi State University.

Allen & Hoshall, founded in 1915, is recognized as a premier design, engineering and energy management consulting firm in the Mid-South, as well as nationally. The firm provides comprehensive engineering, energy management and consulting services to its clients.
